

Everyone can influence
political candidates,

except you.

Politicians don't campaign to people who don't vote. They don't care what you think of them or the way they run the nation. As far as they're concerned, young non-voters are a waste of their time, and they're right. When you don't vote, you don't count. Be the exception, engage our political system >> exceptyou.org
